De-Mystifying Natural Death Care: Home Funeral and Green Burial

Presented by After Death Home Care
Merilynne Rush, RN, BSN

Many of us have heard of green burial, but don't know where it's available or what it means. A few of us have heard of home funeral, or "caring for your loved one at home in the hours or days after death." Home care after death allows for personal expression, creating ritual, time with the body, and a deeply moving and healing experience. It's simple and inexpensive. Embalming is not required.

You are invited to learn more and to share your thoughts as we discuss embracing death, planning ahead, and protecting the environment through natural death care. Please join us.
